

Jump for Joy
Miss Ellen Ruth Levy October 2020

This is not oxymoron..These are joyous velvet curtains..

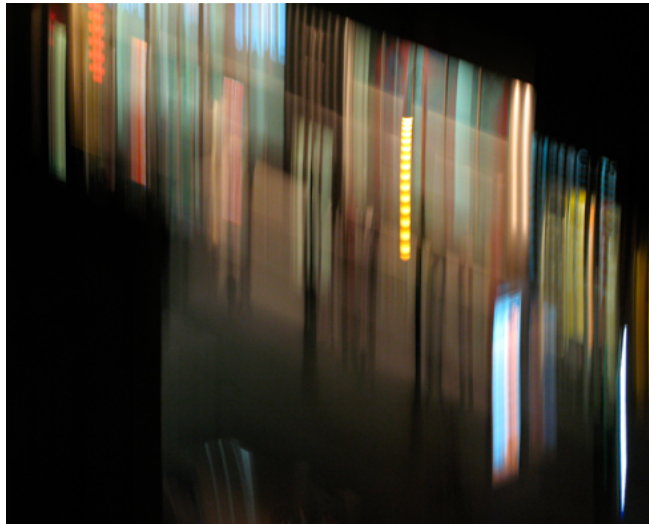

"sauté" jumping up and down reaching high. Mirrored panels like butterfly wings about to take off reaching up for happiness in these dark days.

Jump for Joy installation is inspired by Photographer Ruth Orkin, Christo and Jeanne-Claude: The Gates, and Frank Collierus..

The View from 9C has been my companion for over 50 years. She stays the same. She changes. She's quiet. She's dark. She's light. She dances in the night. She is my spirit and inspiration. She always offers. She is home.

A "MadMen" lived down the street.

The Jefferson Market Library is always always in my view there.

sauté 5/5/2009 ©MissEllen Ruth Levy

The story:

The installation was originally slated to be inside the library entrance during renovation and Grab-and-Go. The decision was made to totally close the library from the public until the renovation is completed.

We decided to bring Jump For Joy right out the front doors so everyone can see and enjoy. And there's more to come!!!!

For more about the artist hold your smart phone camera to scan me QR code at the right and/or go to www.missellenruthlevy.nyc

